

COMMUNICATE

Read and listen carefully, and express ideas through written or spoken means in a manner most appropriate and effective to the audience and context.

Faculty Development Workshop

Thursday, January 9, 2014

8:30 AM-2:30 PM

Old Main

8:30	Breakfast and gathering	Old Main Forum, 2 nd Floor
9:00-10:00	Concurrent Session I
	A. Old Main 225	Resources, assignments and activities for infusing oral communication across the curriculum.
	B. Old Main 223	Resources, assignments and activities for infusing reading across the curriculum.
10:15-11:15	Concurrent Session II
	C. Old Main 225	Assessing oral communication
	D. Old Main 223	Assessing reading
11:30-12:30	Concurrent Session III
	A. Old Main 225	Resources, assignments and activities for infusing oral communication across the curriculum.
	B. Old Main 223	Resources, assignments and activities for infusing reading across the curriculum.
12:30-1:15	Lunch-Wilson Center
1:30-2:30	Concurrent Session IV
	C. Old Main 225	Assessing oral communication
	D. Old Main 223	Assessing reading

Guest experts:

Dr. Alice Horning is a professor in the Department of Writing and Rhetoric at Oakland University in Michigan. Her teaching focuses on language and literacy development, and her research on the psycholinguistics of reading and writing. She has published numerous books and articles in the area.

Dr. Penni Pier is Grant Price Endowed Department Chair at Wartburg College. She also coordinates the oral communication across the curriculum component of Wartburg's core curriculum.

Reminder: April 4, 2014 Research Writing Conference sponsored by the Tredway Library.